Cities to work individually on sewer disposal

BELLE GLADE—Representatives of Belle Glade and Pahokee indicated last week they would rather go their own way in disposing of treated sewage, a course cheaper than working together, but red tape is still delaying a choice of how the effluent would be disposed.

The indications came during a 201 Waste Water Disposal meeting in which the city officials learned any kind of a plan is being indefinitely delayed for lack of information from the State Department of Environmental Regulation (DER).

Richard Ormon of Barker, Osha and Anderson, the engineering firm, along with Russell and Axon, which has been doing a study of the best ways of disposing of effluent from sewage treatment plants in western Palm Beach County, said the quest for a regional plan has been narrowed to six alternatives.

The alternatives, three calling for deep well injection and three calling for land spreading, would cost anywhere from $14 to $15.4 million, depending on the final choice, with an annual cost ranging from $1.3 to $1.4 million.

The decision on whether to go with spraying the effluent over farmland or by pumping it deep below the earth's surface has been hanging fire for some five months, Ormon noted.

Ormon said the problem is that while the EPA (federal Environmental Protection Agency) prefers the use of land

Contest ends Friday

The deadline for the Herald Observer Easter Coloring Contest is Friday at noon and anyone wishing to enter must have their completed entries in the sponsoring business by that time.

Children from kindergarten through grade six are eligible to enter the contest this year and may enter as often as they wish. There are two pages of pictures in this issue of the paper children can use to enter the contest. One page is for children pre-school through the third grade and the other for children in grades four through six.

This was done in order to allow younger children to compete for the cash prizes against youngsters of their own approximate age.

Twenty businesses are sponsoring the contest this year. In the younger age group the sponsors are Sears, Ben Franklin, Kim & Tim's Korner, Foodway Supermarket, Bank of Belle Glade, FinanceAmerica Corporation, Bonavia Chevrolet, the Timesavers, Apple Green, and Food Center. In the older age groups the sponsors are the Bank of Pahokee, Gilbert's Jewelers, Tricia's Collection and the Haze, Florida First National Bank, Lively's Carpet Sales and Cleaning, Wilson's Superette, the Herald and Observer, Holiday Inn, Badoek Furniture of Belle Glade, and Earl's Service Center.

Any coloring medium can be used to color the entries and after completing them, children must take their entries to the business that is sponsoring the pictures he or she has colored.

A representative from the newspaper will pick up the pictures from the businesses Friday afternoon and take them to an impartial judge who will decide the winners.

Three winners in each age group will be selected. Cash prizes of $15 for first, $10 for second, and $5 for third will be awarded and the winners will be announced next week.

Pictures of the winners and sponsoring businessmen will also be published.

RIDIN' HIGH and taking life easy after his cane truck overturned last Thursday on the access road to Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida mill was driver Elbert Washington. Washington lost control of his truck while making the turn from Airport Road, but a Cooperative spokesman said the only damage was to the truck's fifth wheel. No charges were filed because the accident took place on mill property.

South Bay hires new police chief

SOUTH BAY—The City Commission hired a new police chief Tuesday night during regular session, replacing Willie Wisper, Jr., who was terminated recently after being convicted on two counts of possession of marijuana with intent to sell, and took steps to hire a new city manager.

The Commission hired Calvin Lamb, 36, served on the Belle Glade Police Department at one time to give notice to Royal's Department Stores, where he is now employed as manager of Royal's Furniture Store at Glades Plaza in Belle Glade.

Commissioner Ray Sullivan moved during the meeting to hire Merz as the new city manager, but City Attorney James Gann said the city had advertised for a finance director in charge of personnel and if the commission wants to hire a city manager, it must re-advertise for that position.

City Clerk Virginia Walker said she would make up another ad to be run for city manager in the near future.

In other business, the commission:

- Agreed to sell the old city hall on Palm Beach Road to Rumfelt-American Insurance, Inc. for $65,000 net, meaning Rumfelt would pay all closing costs.

- Rejected an agreement with the state Department of Transportation in which the city would have replaced traffic signals on U.S. 27.

- Agreed to donate $150 to the South Bay Elementary School Safety Patrol to assist in paying the patrol's way on a tour of Washington, D.C.

- Decided to contact DOT and request a traffic survey on U.S. 27 at Wodham Subdivision to see if

- a turn signal there is justified.

- Instructed City Clerk Virginia Walker to contact neighboring cities to see if peddlers' fees are in line with South Bay's after Arthur Lee Butts asked the commission to lower the rates.

- Decided to annex two acres of land belonging to Paul Prescott and Barney Richmond. The land is adjacent to the Rabbis Island road leading to the city water plant.

Bagasse to cattle feed process is demonstrated at AREC here

BELLE GLADE—Machinery designed to turn bagasse into a nourishing cattle feed was demonstrated over a four-day period this week at the Agricultural Research and Education Center by representatives of a Canadian company.

M.S. Ozechowsky, president of Stake Technology, Ltd. of Ottawa, Canada, said the process uses what he calls a continuous feed co-digestor, which increases the digestibility of bagasse in cows from 25 percent to 60 percent.

"A cow can eat bagasse in its natural form," Ozechowsky said, "but it takes about as much energy as the bagasse releases. After it's been put through this process, it has about as much digestibility as corn silage."

He said the difference is that while bagasse in its natural form can be eaten by cattle, its use is limited to a filler or source of roughage while the processed bagasse will have real nutritive value.

Bagasse, the residue left after sugarcane is ground at the area mills, has been used already for a number of purposes, including the manufacturing of furfural as a fuel to fire mill boilers and as a cattle feed being processed in pelletized form in Clewiston.

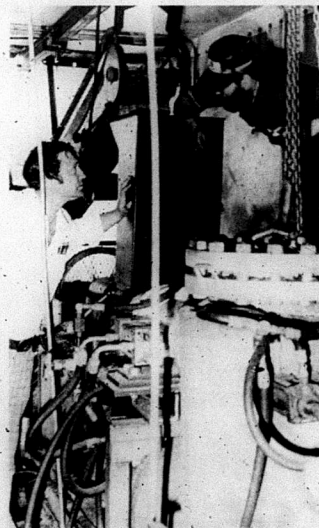

"In Florida," Ozechowsky said, "there are 250,000 acres of sugarcane harvested annually. This will produce 3.4 million tons of bagasse. We would not expect that all the bagasse will eventually be used as cattle feed. We do, however, believe that this product does have considerable potential in Florida."

There were an estimated 196,000 dairy cows in Florida in January, 1976, he went on. "Consumption of five to seven pounds of processed bagasse per day by dairy cows would mean a market for 200,000 tons of bagasse. The market for beef cattle would be equally large, if not larger."

Ozechowsky said Stake Technology has been in operation for the past 3½ years in Canada and has been commercially operating for six months, making cattle feed from wood chips.

He said the process has been largely using poplar wood for a raw material but can also be used in connection with straws, corn stover and cotton gin trash as well as bagasse.

He said poplar is the major source in Canada because there are so many poplar trees which have no real use.

COC coffee is today

BELLE GLADE—The second of a series of Director-Membership coffee and doughnut socials for the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce is being held this morning at Burger World from 7:45 until 9:00.

City manager Robert Sanders is among the invited guests who will meet with local business people to discuss a variety of items.

The socials are being held in order to better serve the Chamber's membership, according to Dale Stapp, president.

The meeting is sponsored by Charles Trammel, president of Everglades Federal, which owns the Burger King building.

All members are invited to come and bring a prospective new member.

A BAGASSE TO CATTLE FEED process was being demonstrated Monday at the Agricultural Research and Education Center by M.S. Ozechowsky, left, and Gary Overton, president and technologist with Stake Technology, Ltd.

SMOKEY'S GOT EARS, or soon will have, thanks to members of the Glades CB Club, Inc. The club presented a base station last Saturday to the Florida Highway Patrol station in Pahokee to allow the troopers to monitor Channel 9, the citizen's band emergency frequency. Presenting the radio to Sgt.

Nobody knows better than a cop the problems of the victim of a crime.

So it's little wonder the fellows of the Glades Sheriff's Office are making plans for a benefit for the family of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johns, whose son was brutally slain last year and whose store in Lake Harbor burned by arsonists about the time the boy's murderers were standing trial.

It's a very, very commendable thing these men are doing. And the sad fact is, it's about all they can do. Once the arrest has been made, the case rests with the courts.

I sincerely believe that's where our biggest problem with crime is... in the courts. If our judicial system would function as many wish and believe it should, that's where our major crime problems would end as well.

If you think about it, many of the rules and regulations our law enforcement officers have to put up with in doing their job came not from the legislative branch, but from the judicial.

It has been said that for each of these regulations, there has been a reason. And that reason points directly at some cop who overstepped his bounds.

But what about the criminal? Hasn't he overstepped the boundaries as well?

It goes without saying that society should not lower itself to behave as the criminal. But should not society have the right to protect itself with whatever tools it can use?

I'm not saying criminals should be detained indefinitely without being charged with a crime or that their rights should be neglected.

What I am saying is to allow our law enforcement officers adequate tools with which to work and, once they do their job, see to it that the trial is fair and the guilty are assured of swift and sure punishment.

That's right, punishment. Rehabilitation is a noble thought which will not work. Punishment is the key.

Rehabilitate the child who's gone astray. Punish the adult or the juvenile who knows better but goes ahead with his actions, anyway.

If it takes more jails, then so be it. But don't allow the criminals to vacation in the slammer. Put them to work and force them to earn their own way.

Why not? Aren't they living off the society they wronged, for the most part? In Mississippi, Parchman Prison not only produces all the food consumed in the other state institutions, but makes a profit as well.

Ask any farmer. If he had "free labor" he could do the same. He'd gladly pay room and board.

I'm mad about crime. And I don't think much is being done about it by judges and lawyers who really aren't concerned with it.

They see only what comes before them and even the most sensitive man can become hardened to tales of brutality if told often enough.

And those tales are becoming more and more the case.

Let the judges and lawyers go with the cops and see crime in all its glory...let them try to explain to a father why his son was tied up and shot in the back.

Then maybe things would be a little different.

Opinion

"O GREAT AND INDEPENDENT ONE... AS YOUR LEADER, MAY I PRESENT A HUMBLE OFFERING FOR YOUR KIND CONSIDERATION"

The DER didn't do it again

Well, the DER hasn't done it again...and if that seems like a strange statement, it's probably because it concerns a strange agency.

The DER, or the Florida Department of Environmental Regulations as it's more properly known, recently managed to jam the wheels of progress in the Glades again, not because of something the Tallahassee bureaucrats did but because of what they couldn't or wouldn't do.

The story came out last Thursday during a meeting between the officials of the county and the three municipalities in the western part of the county.

The meeting dealt with the 201 plan of disposing of wastewater in the Glades and, because of DER's lethargy, or ignorance, nothing came up which hadn't been discussed in a similar meeting last November.

Engineers who said they expected to make definite recommendations on which of six possible plans to pursue to get rid of wastewater in the Glades informed the elected officials they were back to square one because a letter received last week refused to allocate wasteload standards for canals in the area.

The standards are needed for the engineers to make a decision about whether to recommend the three cities get rid of their sewer treatment plant effluent by pumping it into one or more deep wells or by spreading it out on some fields.

DER has made it plain we can't get rid of our effluent unless we can show the drainoff into the canals doesn't exceed the wasteload allocations.

Those canals, remember, are the ones which were dug and have been maintained for the dual purpose of flood control and irrigation control for the larger Everglades Agricultural Area we live in but which the DER in all its bureaucratic wisdom has classified as Class III recreational wildlife waters with the goal of making them pure enough to attract brook trout by 1983.

Those are also the canals DER promised some years back would be at least considered for reclassification after the original frenzy of naming every body of water in the state except drainage ditches as Class III or higher, something else DER hasn't done.

But it would seem the wasteload allocations wouldn't really make all that much difference anyway, since the most cost efficient (that's the cheapest, most efficient way of getting rid of the wastewater to us common people) is deep well injection.

So we could go ahead and dig that deep well and satisfy everybody, right?

Wrong.

Because waiting in the wings is the EPA, the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, which is endorsing land spreading as the best way of getting rid of the effluent...at least that's what they're endorsing this week. Who knows what they'll be pushing next week.

And lest anyone misunderstand, the EPA's endorsement of land spreading means that if we want to go ahead with deep well injection, we have to prove land spreading is a bad choice.

And in the meantime, we wait.

We wait while the DER waits for enough water quality studies to be completed in the canals to be able to allocate wasteloads to them, although there have been so many samples taken for studies so far it's a wonder the canals have any water of whatever quality left running in them.

That, or we wait until EPA comes up with some entirely different scheme to get rid of the water, something that might happen anyway a few years down the line.

But one thing we can forget about waiting for and that's a slice of the federal-state funding pie to help pay for the improvements the bureaucracies are sure to demand. Because the deadline for that aid is April 15 and there's no way to meet that deadline without bureaucratic approval of some kind of plan.

It's enough to make one wonder whether we'd get action by everyone deciding to go back to outhouses.

Robert Johns

Johns was the owner of Nipper's Department Store in Lake Harbor. Nipper's was burned to the ground by arsonists Jan. 22, just about the time three local men were going to trial for the murder of Johns' son during an armed robbery last Sept. 30.

Capt. Frank Fogleman, who heads the sheriff's Glades sub-station, had tried to no avail to ensure Johns would get some help under the state's victim aid law, but he didn't qualify because the law doesn't allow for property loss and his son's murder took place before the law went into effect.

Fogleman and some of the other men in the sub-station could have dropped the matter there, but they went the extra mile and came up with the benefit as a means of helping out someone they felt was deserving.

No amount of money could possibly pay Johns and his family for the loss of his son, but the arsonist's match added debt to grief to his problems...and money can help relieve the debt.

The men of the Glades sub-station who are ramrodding the barbeque are doing no more or less than demonstrating the earliest meaning of the word, charity. According to Webster, the word derives from caring or love.

Can we do less?

It's History Now

TWENTY YEARS AGO

March 21, 1958

Baseball players on the Belle Glade city team will have their first workout of the '58 season Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the high school diamond.

All the old and young pros are urged to come out for the team or contact Perry (Butterball) Rigdon at the Herald.

Already signed for the team are Lee Burke, Sam Crissman, Wilford Markham, Mickey Remley, Marion Horne, Charles Wells, Charles Rhodes, Tom Lanier, Charles Hickman, Andy Anderson and Richard Bethea.

Bethea and Horne were stand-outs in high school diamond play in the Suncoast Conference with Clewiston.

Belle Glade mail carrier Aubrey Arnold strolled into the post office last week, returning from his daily delivery run, and announced, "Well, I got hit today."

Pressing for more information, the assistant postmaster asked if he wanted to make a report of it.

"I don't mean a dog-bite," he replied. "A child bit me. If I hadn't had on plenty of clothes, he would surely have taken some of my skin. His mother came out just awrining her hands and said, 'Mr. Mailman, I just don't know what I'm going to do with my son. He just loves to bite people.'"

It appears that folks could surely find more delectable cuts of meat in town without resorting to gnawing on our parrel pushers.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

March 19, 1948

BELLE GLADE—The City Commission at its meeting two weeks ago passed an ordinance creating a new board of City Planning, but did not name the five members. At the session of the Commission Wednesday night, March 14, four of the five members were named and confirmed, namely Miss Sara Creech, Lutz, but Mayor Lloyd has not settled on his nominee.

Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, local campaign manager for Colin English in his candidacy for governor, announces that Mr. English is visiting in the Glades this morning in the interest of his race.

Talks are scheduled at Canal Point, Pahokee and Belle Glade.

He expects to make another short visit to the Glades before election, at which time he will visit South Bay and Lake Harbor.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

One of the more fascinating things I've always found about researching a news story, especially when it means digging through old records, is the number of little things you run across that may be good for a laugh or some speculation but won't be used in the article itself.

And there's been a field day of that over the past few weeks when we've been putting together a special historical issue of The Herald for the city's Golden Anniversary, not to mention some of the things I've heard from the members of the Bicentennial Committee, which happens to be spearheading the celebration.

Matter of fact, I've been asked on more than one occasion by some bemused citizen why the heck the Bicentennial Committee is ramrodding this celebration anyway. After all, all of us committee members thought our job was finished about two years ago, too.

Actually, the answer to that one's pretty simple, even if it is confusing to a lot of people. When we first started talking up the possibility of some kind of observance of the city's 50th birthday, several of us came up with the same idea, that the Bicentennial Committee had never been dissolved officially and it's made up of the kind of people who get things done. If a special committee had been made up to coordinate the goings-on, it probably would've wound up with the same members, anyway.

Besides, I may be prejudiced because I've got some good friends on the committee (not to mention I'm a member, too) but I think some pretty good times are being organized by those volunteers.

Such as the Gong Show Bee Wood's been working so hard on. And that's one of the areas I came across a bit of arcane history that tickled my fancy more than a little bit.

Seems Bee and a couple of the other committee members remembered some talent shows that used to be put on in the community back before my time and someone mentioned that in one of them, Milton Carpenter, who owns one of the finest baritone singing voices I've ever had the pleasure of hearing, was beat out by some unknown kid from Pahokee who was having a ball with his hijinks on stage.

And that was the first time a lot of people, including at least one local lady who said she was highly perturbed at the time that Milton was beaten out of first place, were exposed to M-Mel Tillis.

Then there were some of the shenanigans hinted at in the city's records.

Like that, with no comment, that each of the five aldermen elected to the town council during that first meeting which incorporated Belle Glade into something more than a place name on the map each received precisely 50 votes.

And I didn't exactly agree with the guy who commented, "Now ain't that a coincidence?", either. If two of those characters had voted the same number of votes, that would have been coincidence. Three would've been startling, but all five...? Come on, now!

Then there was the intriguing fact that the first minutes still on record at city hall were for two meetings in August, 1928 and the next meeting in October, incorporated Belle Glade into something more than a place name on the map each received precisely 50 votes.

But I wasn't the only one doing some digging in old files recently. June Boglioli was doing some research for other reasons and came across a couple of nifty incidences, too.

Like the fact the city's first manager was given the job by simply going before the commission in 1946 and asking for it, before the position was created.

There was apparently some fancy footwork done, though, because a couple of months later the commissioners passed an ordinance creating the position, and by 1953, the job was made official as a part of the city charter.

Then there was the other incident June recalled when one of our former-city employees suggested the city commission raise the bond for his job because he was handling more and more money for the city...And shortly afterwards was arrested for embezzling $22,000 from the city's coffers.

So who says history is dull?

At Everglades Federal

Chief loan officer named

BELLE GLADE—Thomas H. Wilkinson has been appointed vice president and chief loan officer of Everglades Federal, according to an announcement this week by president Charles B. Trammel.

He assumed the duties of the office last week in the main office of the local savings and loan association in Belle Glade. Everglades Federal also has branch offices in Pahokee and Clewiston.

Wilkinson was born in Macon, Ga., and has lived in West Palm Beach and Stuart for the past seven years.

He attended Middle Georgia College and has taken extension courses in business from the University of Georgia.

Wilkinson was manager of Employment Loan & Thrift of West Palm before joining Community

Federal Savings and Loan in the loan department.

He worked for Community Federal in that capacity for four years, then was appointed senior loan officer for the Stuart branch, where he has worked for the past two years.

He and his wife, Ann, have one son, Drew, age eight. Wilkinson is a Baptist who enjoys fishing, golf and racquet ball and is a member and director of the Kiwanis Club of Stuart and presently vice president of the Mortgage Officers Society.

Wilkinson assumes the duties held until recently by Rupert (Bubba) Mock, Jr. who resigned to become branch manager of the Belle Glade office of the Bank of Pahokee.

Wilkinson

nard Case, Steve Towle, Tom Bonavia and Chester Mullis. Towle spoke to the local members and their guests about pro football.

Dolphins speak to Lions

BELLE GLADE—Steve Towle, middle linebacker for the Miami Dolphins knows the ups and downs of football. Towle, completing his third season with the Dolphins spoke openly about football to the local members and their guests last Wed., March 15, at the Kiwanis Club of the Glades weekly meeting.

Towle told the group there are more important things in his life than just football. He spoke highly of his family and friends, attributing his success in the pros to both. "Your family is the one who stands in your corner when you are in a fight, and your friends are someone you can turn your back on and still have friends in the ring fighting for you." Since the death of his grandfather, Towle's best friend, he has added one more thing of importance to his life, "Our Father."

During his past three years in the National Football League, Towle has played against all the big names in the profession. He feels that O.J. Simpson was probably the best player he has ever run up against.

"When you play against his team you play to stop O.J. Towle said that Simpson was a rare type of people that never has been challenged and never quits working.

"The meanest man in football is now a Saint," Towle said, talking about Conrad Dobler, who claims that he is the roughest and toughest player in the league.

Ken Stabler has to be the "most explosive," and Bert Jones the "best athlete," Towle said. Roger Staubach is a good player but has a hard time reading the plays, he added.

Towle spoke highly of his teammates giving Griese most of the credit. "Griese is the best thinking and leading quarterback in the league, sometimes he feels his own players," he said. Even though Griese had to wear glasses last season it has not affected his playing in the least.

Although Towle did not play in the game against the New England Patriots, due to an injury, one of the better highlights was when the Dolphins wore pantiyose during the game, it sure has "made for an embarrassing off-season," he said.

Towle said the main concern for the upcoming season will be an offensive tackle and back-ups on the defensive line.

We need the support of the fans, "I'll be out there doing the best I can," Towle said.

Generic Drugs
Substituting a generic equivalent for the high priced Brand Name Drug will save a large percentage of your prescription dollar. Advertising and merchandising of the Brand Name runs the cost up to the patient.

Florida Law requires every Pharmacist to offer a less expensive drug for the Brand Name Drug unless your Physician writes "MEDICALLY NECESSARY" on your prescription. It requires extra effort to properly select quality generic drugs, but we think you're worth it. Call your Pharmacist if you have questions.

Christian Comments

SOUTH BAY-Is your house like my house is this time of year? Getting ready for company, having spring cleaning, preparing for Girl Scout egg hunts, school egg hunts and church egg hunts, and we don't even like eggs! A seven-year-old girl is trying to decide what color dress to wear and a little boy wants to know why he can't wear his blue jeans and tennis shoes to Easter Sunday Services. All of this is Easter; and yet there is more. I found a poem the other day that might express how we as Christians should see Easter.

If Jesus came to your house to spend a day or two, If He came unexpectedly, I wonder what you'd do.

Oh, I know you'd give your nicest room to such an honored Guest, And all the food you'd serve Him would be the very best. And you would keep assuring Him you're glad to have Him there, That serving Him in your home is joy beyond compare!

But when you saw Him coming, would you meet Him at the door, With arms outstretched in welcome to your Heavenly Visitor? Or would you have to change your clothes before you let Him in, Or hide some magazines and put the Bible where they'd been? Would you turn off the T.V. and hope He hadn't heard?

And wish you hadn't uttered that last, loud hasty word? Would you hide your worldly music and put your radio out? Could you let Jesus walk right in, or would you hope they'd stay away until His visit ends?

And I wonder - if the Saviour spent a day or two with you - Would you go right on doing the things you always say?

Would life for you continue as it does from day to day? Would your family conversation keep up its usual pace?

And would you find it hard each meal to say a table grace? Would you sing the songs you sing and read the books you read?

And let Him know the things on which your mind and spirit feed?

Would you take Jesus with you where you had planned to go, Or would you, maybe, change your plans for just a day or so?

Would you be glad to have Him meet your very closest friends, Or would you hope they'd stay away until His visit ends?

Would you be glad to have Him stay forever on and on, Or would you sigh with great relief when He at last was gone?

Might be interesting to know the things that you would do. If Jesus came in person to spend some time with you.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of J.E. (Jake) Williams wishes to extend heartfelt thanks to all the friends and relatives who remembered us through cards, memorials, food, flowers, visits and phone calls.

Your thoughts were tremendously appreciated in the moments following the death of our loved one, who passed away March 3 at his home, 444 B. Road, Loxahatchee. He was formerly a resident of Pahokee at 785 Bacon Point Road.

Services were held in West Palm Beach on March 6 in the funeral home chapel.

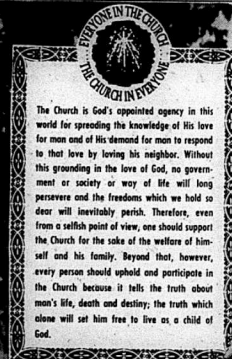

Thanks to all who offered their assistance to us.

Mrs. Lucille Williams and Family

Observing Easter

"Jesus said, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever loveth and believeth in me shall never die." John 11:25.

Easter, the day on which we celebrate the resurrection of our Lord, should find us worshipping Him in His Church. He is alive! His presence fills the sanctuary! All things are made new. It is the time of beginning again. Attend church and join your neighbors in singing praises to God for His Glory and Power and Love; and some of this Resurrection Joy and Power will come to you.

Garden Club buys Tiger Creek land, announces new officers

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade Garden Club voted to purchase one acre of Tiger Creek Conservation area near Lake Wales. Their meeting was recently held in the home of Mrs. W. E. Cato with a large group attending.

Mrs. Christine Elliott, Tiger Creek Chairman of District 10, presented an interesting program of slides and narration of the beautiful Tiger Creek Nature Conservation Area which extends eight miles along the creek in its original natural, unspoiled and beautiful habitat of plants and animals. The water is clearer than any in the State except the springs of north Florida.

In keeping with the theme of the program the roll call was answered by naming a favorite bird and the following poem was used to call the meeting to order by the president, Mrs. Alene McAllister:

Each morning at eight from the big oak tree;

A red-headed woodpecker chatted with me.

We talked and I listened as he clung to the tree;

Of a philosophy of life, strange to me;

He didn't discuss the children nearby who before too long must be taught to fly.

He talked and I listened and the squirrel in the tree

Heard what he said when he said to me:

Put your food under this tree;

Go back to your chores as you must be free.

A privilege to feed those who live in a tree.

Many of the club members plan to attend a "Tropical Gardening Course," to be given by Gene Joyner at Glades Central Annex Library on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 in May. The registration fee is $5 and the meetings are open to anyone interested. The courses will be shade and flowering trees, pruning, ornamentals, May 2; ornamental plant maintenance, May 9; citrus culture, May 16; lawn maintenance, May 23; indoor plants - panel discussion, May 30.

New officers elected for the coming year are president, Mrs. Alene McAllister; vice president, Mrs. A. D. Acree; recording secretary, Mrs. Mary McLendon; treasurer, Mrs. Iris Hodges; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Verda Mathison. Mrs. Queber Buss was elected Tiger Creek chairman.

A majority of the club members made reservations to attend the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs, Inc., District 10, 1978, Spring Presidents Conference in Boca Raton, March 31st, to be held in the Holiday Inn there. The theme of this conference will be "A Ticket For Learning," and everyone is looking forward with enthusiasm toward this program.

Fluid drilling program scheduled for today

BELLE GLADE-Area vegetable growers are invited to hear a seminar at 4 p.m. today on fluid drilling of pregerminated seed by a British plant physiologist in the library conference room of the Agricultural Research and Education Center.

Dr. David Gray of the National Vegetable Research Station in Wellesbourne, England, will be in the Glades area this morning to see celery, radish, lettuce and carrot production. He has conducted research on fluid drilling of all the above crops except radishes.

Sowing pregerminated seed has the potential, according to County Extension Agent Kenneth Shuler, of increasing emergence rates and crop stands, particularly in warm soils of late summer and cold soils of mid-winter.

Designed primarily for new dealer or salesmen and new companies joining the manufacturer's nationwide builder/dealer network, the school reviews design characteristics of Star's wide range of metal building systems for commerce and industry. Basic product knowledge needed by professional building consultants is stressed.

Thirty-six builder/dealer company representatives from 19 states were represented at the seminar, which is conducted four times yearly.

New ceramic twist is called photolifting

CANAL POINT-There's a new twist to ceramics that Mrs. Bertie Maxson, owner of Bertie's Ceramics in Canal Point, is passing on to interested crafters. It's called photo-lifting and can be performed on materials other than ceramics, such as wood, as well.

Monday night Mrs. Maxson held her first class, after receiving instructions herself during a ceramic show in Orlando. Along with photo-lifting, the group of six persons tried their hands at mirror stripping. Both procedures involve creating a unique background and frame for photographs.

Each student was provided a kit and other necessary materials to complete the relatively simple yet unusual techniques. Mrs. Maxson will hold another class later for anyone interested.

She noted that she and Jane Frier of Belle Glade will photo-lift photographs onto desired materials, for a fee, if requested. Mrs. Maxson said such items as wedding photographs and Christmas cards make nice gifts through this technique. Photographs as well as personal invitations may be reduced or enlarged for Mrs. Maxson will send them to the appropriate place for the adjustments in size. Ceramic classes are a regular feature at Bertie's Ceramics each Tuesday and Thursday nights. With the mix of materials and imagination, the possibilities for personal creations could be endless. Photo-lifting and mirror stripping are two such unique creations.

Farm workers now average $4.17 hourly

GAINESVILLE-Florida farm workers averaged $4.17 an hour in January, 17 cents an hour more than the U.S. average for farm laborers, according to the recent survey of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The $4.17 an hour is a 7.5 percent increase over the $3.88 of last year. The USDA survey was taken during Jan. 8-14, a peak harvest season in Florida. The survey also found there were 108,000 farm workers in Florida during that period.

"This latest survey shows farm workers are earning excellent wages, despite what United Farm Worker officials would have you believe," said Al French, Florida Farm Bureau Federation's labor relations director. "Recent U.S. Department of Labor statistics show the average hourly rate for non-farm workers in 1977 was only $3.83 an hour."

Anyone who suffers from asthma, chronic sinusitis, allergies, or any other respiratory problem associated with airborne contaminants will benefit from the use of the Cleanaire room air cleaner.

This unique air filtration system utilizes the well-known HEPA filter in conjunction with a disposable pre-filter and a blower. The unit provides 5 to 6 air changes per hour for an average size bedroom. The pre-filter contains activated charcoal for the control of gaseous odors. The HEPA filter (High Efficiency Particulate Air Filter) is efficient in removal of particles down to a size of .3 microns or 1/75,000 of an inch. This includes most bacteria, viruses, pollen, fungus, spores, dust, hair, dander, and smoke. The HEPA was originally designed for the Atomic Energy Commission to provide a source of sterile dust-free air.

The Cleanaire filter produces no ozone, requires minimal maintenance, and operates off a standard 115 volt electrical circuit. When used in conjunction with the treatment prescribed by your physician, the Cleanaire unit can help you enjoy better health, in a clean particle-free environment.

Lake highest in eight years

The level of Lake Okeechobee is the highest it has been, at this time of year, for the past eight years. Governing Board members of the South Florida Water Management District heard at their Friday meeting. This high level guarantees that there will not be a shortage of water for South Florida during the coming spring months.

Rainfall during the month of February was 157 percent of normal and unseasonal rains have continued during the first half of March. In fact, the dry season rainfall (October through February) total 15.54 inches or 142 percent of normal.

The upper Kissimmee Basin, main tributary to Lake Okeechobee, has received even higher rains. Here rainfall is 174 percent of normal. As a result of this unusual rainfall pattern the lake on this date (March 17) is at 15.41 above mean sea level (MSL).

Under the old lake regulation schedule, water should be released to tide water, but the Corps of Engineers and the District have been working for years to build in the protection necessary to increase the flood regulation level another two feet.

The District has requested the Corps to disregard the old schedule at this time to allow the opportunity of holding additional water in the lake, rather than releasing it.

Sportsmen complain of traps during meeting in Clewiston

CLEWISTON—At a public meeting Thursday night in the Clewiston City Hall, a standing room only crowd of sportsfishermen and commercial fishermen met with representatives of the Florida Freshwater Fish and Game Commission to hear comments on the Lake Okechobee Fisheries Utilization and Management Program.

Some of the top brass of the Commission, including chief of law enforcement Col. Brantley Goodson and Majors Lou Gainey and J.L. Brown, along with chief of the Bureau of Fisheries F. G. Banks, represented the Commission.

Sportsfishermen were represented by a number of winter and year-round residents from as far away as Okechobee and Belle Glade. In addition to these men, a number of commercial fishermen were also in the audience.

The meeting began with a slide presentation on the program given by project leader Lohian Ager. The slides said the program was one method of attempting to remove nutrients from the lake that enter from three primary sources.

Banks noted there are two sides of the picture and said the Commission authorized it all the Lake Okechobee Advisory Board recommended the program to the commission.

He said the poor black crappie season this year could be from a variety of factors and that the Commission is using the commercial fishermen participating in the program as "agents of the state" to do something the state can't afford to do, the removal of vast quantities of fish from the lake. Banks said so far, around ten million pounds of fish have been removed.

Goodson said his officers, eight of whom are permanently assigned to the lake along with a sergeant, have encountered some minor problems but no real surprises.

Gainey said a great deal of data has been gathered thus far through the program and the Commission attempted to set up the program so that it was generally acceptable.

Last year, said Gainey, the fishing was good and the Commission has been aware all along that the first poor speck season would be blamed on the program.

Gainey said commercial fishing is the only possible tool the Commission has of attempting to manage fish but the program on the lake isn't possible without the support of sportsfishermen. He said it is an attempt to produce quality sportsfishing in Lake Okechobee and is not something done for the commercial fisherman's benefit.

With these statements, the meeting was opened to general comment and sportsfishermen, almost to a man crappie fishermen, quickly set the tone.

The tone was a distrust and general feeling against the program and more specifically, against the wire fish traps that are set primarily for specks.

Brown noted traps are supposed to be in water six feet deeper than greater but fishermen time and again told the representatives they were being set in their best fishing grounds.

Many illegal traps have been destroyed and confiscated, said Brown, but during the session, the trap question continued to pop up, including comments that the reason wire fish traps were legalized for the harvest of scalefish was the historical fact fish traps have always been legal on the lake for taking catfish and these same traps take other fish as well.

The representatives said the reason floating markers on traps have been removed is that the illegal traps weren't marked anyway.

Ager said sports are less specks in the lake now than they were a year ago and said this was one of the goals of the program. He said the commission has discovered an increase in the size of the average speck this year but sportsfishermen told him they were smaller rather than larger.

Ager said the last season was exceptionally good and this year is exceptionally bad but problems such as low water temperatures, a great deal of rainfall, together with the commercial program acted together to bring about the poor season.

He also said data from other lakes where crappie success is also poor, as well as salt water where the season hasn't been good, indicate the washer has played a substantial role in the poor season this year.

In answer to a question, Brown said he's sure not all the fish netted or trapped are brought to shore as called for in the regulations. He said some rough fish are being sold, but about 60% must be dumped in sanitary landfills or otherwise disposed of.

Goodson told the audience Lake Okechobee has at least 25% more law enforcement on it than any other lake in the state but this is still not enough to prevent violations of the program.

Dan May, Belle Glade bait shop owner, said what was needed was one law enforcement officer per boat. May also questioned the enforcement of the program in the courts until he told him it's up to the judge as to the penalty levied against violators.

Brown said part of the problem has been the court's feelings the one-mile limit for commercial netting is nebulous and hard to enforce. He said this is being changed by a system of buoys around the lake marking the limits of legal commercial netting operations.

May told the Commission members a number of winter visitors have said they will not be back and said he didn't think 240 commercial fishermen can make up for the loss of revenue of these sportsfishermen.

Brown agreed, saying if the commission had to go on a revenue basis, they'd have to back the sportsfishermen 100 percent. But until the program causes problems, he said, it will be continued.

Brown said the commission will know more surely if there is a problem with overharvest of specks by July 1. By that time, he said, the crappie will have moved back into deep water and the commercial harvest of these fish will give a population indication.

He said the commission decided against merely taking the limits off fish for sportsfishermen because it would be almost impossible to control the movement of fish through the state.

He also said the commission isn't making money off the tagging operation but that fish tagging is paying the cost of the program.

Louie Baccioti, owner of the Jolly Roger Marina in Clewiston, said when the program was in the public hearing process, the Commission said it would not allow traps. Yet, he said, from the first day of commercial fishing operations, there have been traps in the lake. He said he attended a hearing in which traps were discussed and the Commission was against them because they would conflict with sportsfishing. Today there are thousands of traps in the lake.

Goodson said the commission reversed its decision because it was felt trapping regulations would be unenforceable.

George Waldron of Clewiston, a member of the Advisory Council that recommended the program as a resident of the lake for 51 years, said there are still plenty of specks and he hasn't had trouble catching them.

But the patterns have changed and the fish are deep in the grass instead of on traditional, speck grounds, he said.

A sportsfisherman said he has stumbled across bass with their bellies slit so they would sink and that commercial boats are dumping dead fish back into the lake.

Brown said the only real answer to the problem of hauling rough fish "to the hill" is their utilization and a profit for the commercial fishermen. Two avenues are being watched for this solution, said Dennis Hanland of the commercial fisheries division, net food and human food in the Far East. He said he hoped substantial progress would be made soon.

Norman Padgett, president of the Organized Fishermen of Florida, which represents primarily commercial fishermen, said last September fishing began to drop off for both sports and commercial fishermen. In six months, he said, he has not caught enough fish to pay the gas bill on his haul seine operation.

Continuing, Padgett said he feels more emphasis should be put on haul seining since that is the best method of removing rough fish and that the Commission needs to relax seine rules fishermen can make money.

Padgett also said the Commission has failed both sports and commercial fishermen by not assigning a public relations to the program to keep everybody informed as to what is happening.

Padgett also attacked traps, saying it was his understanding there are no legal scalefish traps and that all traps should have a floating marker and be used only to catch catfish.

Padgett said further the law allows the Commission to charge up to 5 cents each for fish tags and only 2 1/2 cents is now being charged. He said if more money was collected, more enforcement could be put out on the lake.

Brown told him scalefish traps are legal on the lake, so long as they are placed in six feet or more of water and Padgett said a scalefish trap in six feet won't catch fish.

Gainey told the audience the Commission is as disappointed in the poor fishing as anybody, but his agency bears the responsibility of quality fishing on the lake and the program is the only tool that can be utilized.

If the program is brought to an end, he said, all fishermen will lose because of overpopulation and stunting of fish and overenrichment of lake water.

The program, said Gainey, will continue as long as people are satisfied with it and if it doesn't do the job, the Commission will have to find something else.

Gainey said one bad season doesn't indicate the end of fishing

IT WAS STANDING ROOM ONLY as sports and commercial fishermen from the greater lake Okechobee area crowded into the Clewiston City Hall Thursday night. Some spectators and sportsmen came late and went home disgruntled because they could not get into hearing distance of the meeting.

Since Florida has so much sunshine, how come we're not using it for energy?

Florida's known as the Sunshine State. So with all that golden goodness to spare how come we're not converting it into electrical energy?

The reason is simple: sunshine is free; turning it into electricity is anything but.

Yes, there are solar-heated homes. You see all kinds of announcements about solar-heated pools and water heaters. By the sound of things you'd think we were well into the Solar Age.

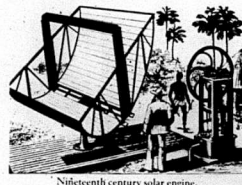

Unfortunately, we're not. For centuries, man has been dealing with the problem of harnessing the sun's energy. Today we do have the technology to produce electricity from solar energy. But it's still not possible to do this at a cost affordable to our customers.

The cost of producing electricity from the sun is over 10 times the cost of producing it from oil, coal or nuclear energy.

And the best scientific estimates predict this: even 20 years from now the United States will be able to obtain no more than 5% of our electrical energy from the sun.

Not a very sunny proposition, is it? Still, we're working on it.

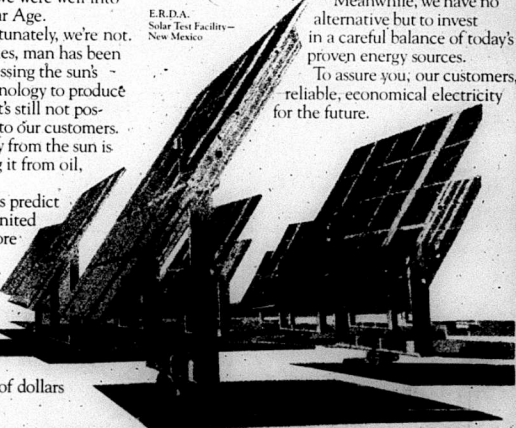

FPL, together with other power companies and the federal government, is investing millions of dollars in New Mexico. We're also working on a number of solar energy projects here in our own state.

Meanwhile, we have no alternative but to invest in a careful balance of today's proven energy sources.

To assure you, our customers, reliable, economical electricity for the future.

Working on tomorrow's energy...for you.

The cross...the lillies...symbols of God's care for us, His peace, His love.
